Thousands of people took to the streets to participate in protests and demonstrations in the summer capital of Srinagar. Large crowds gathered in the iconic Lal Chowk in the city since Sunday morning, following Iran's confirmation regarding the Khamenei's killing in an airstrike.

Teary-eyed demonstrators including women and children, most of them Shia Muslims, gathered near the clock tower and shouted slogans in favour of Khamenei and against US and Israel.

J&K chief minister Omar Abdullah expressed "deep concern" regarding the unfolding developments and appealed to maintain peace.

Meanwhile, Kashmir’s chief cleric Mirwaiz Umar Farooq called for a shutdown on Monday against the “ongoing aggression against Iran”.

Mirwaiz said this was a moment for Muslims to “rise above divisions and stand united to register our protest and solidarity against this killing and the continued aggression in the region”.

“Mutahida Majlis-e-Ulama (MMU) has called for a complete strike tomorrow. We urge the people to observe it with unity, dignity, and complete peacefulness,” he said.
