

RIGHTS

Advertisement

s, end28/
Sep/2026J
min
read

The university has been closed for 10 days from today, and it has postponed mid-term examinations until further notice.

Latest

POLITICS

Rahul Gandhi's...
Mehbooba Mufti

DIPLOMACY

India's Bullet Train Proje...
The Wire Staff

GOVERNMENT

Maharashtra CEO Asks...
The Wire Staff

POLITICS

BJP's SC/ST MPs...
The Wire Staff

FILM

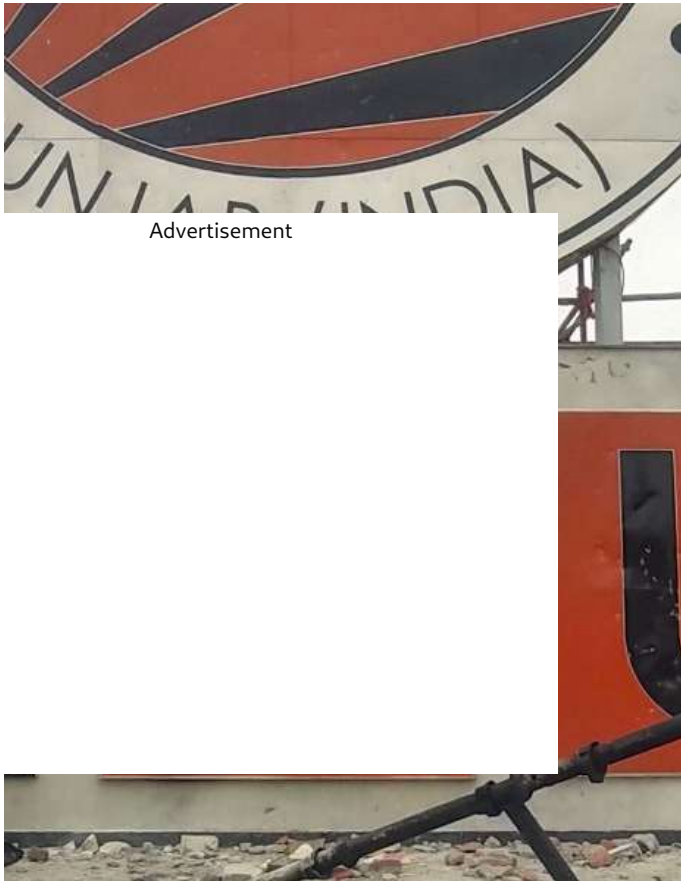

The Films Banned a...
Ashish Rajadhyaksha

The India Cable

A premium, daily newsletter
India, curated by the Editors
Wire.

Advertisement

Get India in your inbox

Advertisement

Debris and charred remains lie scattered on the ground after a protest by students at the Lovely Professional University (LPU) campus, in Phagwara, Punjab, Sunday, Sept. 27, 2026. Photo: PTI.

New Delhi: Internet services have been suspended today, September 28, in and around Lovely Professional University in Phagwara amid protests following an allegation of rape and alleged inaction by the university authorities.

A day ago, on September 27, hundreds of agitated students ransacked the university and torched vehicles.

Adv

Subscribe Now

Advertisement

Advertisement

Adv

adharorce was applied.

Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann is reported to have directed Director General of Police Gaurav Yadav to visit the spot today, the Chief Minister's Office has announced.

The university has been closed for 10 days from today, and it has postponed mid-term examinations until further notice.

LPU is a private university owned by BJP Rajya Sabha MP, Ashok Mittal, who is its founder and chancellor. Mittal was earlier an AAP MP but joined the BJP in April this year.

Adve

Advertisement